ANNOUNCING OUR ANNUAL REPORT

Dear Friend of the Humanities,

This spring, as the home quarantine measures begin to relax, we have two wishes for every Montanan. May you and your loved ones continue to remain healthy and safe, and may you join us in helping those who are most affected by this crisis.

When this time of social isolation first descended upon us, our staff nimbly pivoted to explore how we might provide virtual outlets for our statewide programs. Poets Laureate Melissa Kwasny and M. L. Smoker and author David Quammen are among the revered humanists you can invite into your living rooms via our DIY Digital Humanities initiative.

As you take a moment to review our Annual Report and explore the overview of our impact in 2019, you will see how we share untold stories, prioritize civic awareness and promote literacy and reading to people of all ages. Your unwavering support of Humanities Montana empowers us to deliver diverse programming statewide.

As our mission statement indicates, we are here to help secure the survival of our culture, and we ask you to please join us in that effort. Explore our website to see the breadth and depth of what we are delivering during the pandemic. Your support makes all that possible. Social distancing has emaciated volunteer staffs and grassroots fundraising so critical to Montana's libraries, museums, theaters, nonprofits, individual scholars, authors, and creatives. The CARES Act has provided lifelines to assist Montanans during the next phase. We are humbled by the responsibility to act as a non-beneficiary pass-through for federal funding allocated to support the individuals and institutions that enhance Montana's rich culture.

On a personal note, over the last eight months, it has been my distinct honor to serve as the interim executive director. In a couple of weeks, Randi Tangen will be taking over the reins as the new executive director.

Thank you for standing with us. We look forward to being with you again in person soon, and in the meantime, stay safe.

Sincerely,

Scott Crichton
Interim Executive Director
